

Simpson to start residency at Museum of African American History

Boston, Massachusetts
May 5, 2010

The Museum of African American History is pleased to announce the appointment of Carole Simpson as its first journalist-in-residence. Ms. Simpson, a veteran journalist and longtime weekend anchor of ABC World News Tonight, is now Leader-in-Residence at Emerson College Journalism Department. During her residency at the Museum, she will be writing articles, hosting programs and conducting interviews, which will stream on WGBH's Forum Network website.

For more information: <http://www.maah.org>

The Museum's historic sites include:

Boston

The African Meeting House, 1806

The Abiel Smith School, 1835

Nantucket

The African Meeting House, circa 1820

The Seneca Boston-Florence Higginbotham House, circa 1774